Our Home "Review,"

Is for sale. Mr. Elliott and family are to vacate it May 1st, and it is larger than we can occupy to advantage. It is by far the best home in this city and it is hard to duplicate (everything considered) in the United States for the money it costs.

The site is superb. It embraces ten full city lots 4 by 8 rods. The house and barn are every way right.

It is worthy the attention of any one seeking a first class home. As we before said, we will sell it and we will give possession May 1st.

We have an architect working on plans for a smaller but equally good house, to be built for ourselves directly opposite "River-view", and if we can sell this we shall have it built to occupy by July 15th.

This is an unusually attractive opportunity. Come and see us.

Saturday's Tragedy Causes A Murder.

A LAWYER AND A REPORTER FIGHT.

The Former Shoots His Antagonist Dead and is Seriously Wounded Himself.—Report of the Italian Consul.

MORE BLOODSHED.

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—Arthur Dunn, one of the state's lawyers in the Hennessy case, Wednesday night shot and killed Frank Waters, a writer on the Sunday Sun, a sensational weekly. The difficulty arose from a discussion of the operations of the committee of fifty in the Hennessy case. Waters denounced the operations of Saturday to a crowd of listeners, and when Dunn replied Waters asked him why he did not take it up. Both drew revolvers and fired. Frank Waters received a wound through the head, which killed him almost instantly. Arthur Dunn was shot twice, once through the abdomen, and is seriously wounded.

Waters' body was taken to the police headquarters, while Dunn was sent to Charity hospital, and after being carefully examined by House Surgeon Miles was placed in ward 14. No one was allowed to see him. During the shooting two bystanders were slightly wounded, one in the arm and another in the leg.

Dunn was an Eighth ward politician, then a captain of police, was defeated for the position of police recorder at the last election, and studied law. He was one of the state's attorneys in the recent trial of Waters was formerly a reporter on an afternoon paper, and while acting as such four years ago he was attacked by state assessor Joseph Baker, of the Eighth ward, and Waters killed him. The killing is supposed to have been an outcome of the Baker case, Dunn being a friend of the dead assessor.

The grand jury began its investigation in earnest Wednesday, but did not confine itself to the occurrences at the prison last Saturday. It is searching for the corruption which was at the bottom of the people's uprising. Most of the grand jury is composed of D. C. O'Malley and the Hennessy jury. The grand jury did not return any indictments, but it is known that a true bill for bribery upon two counts has been decided on, and it will be brought into court to-day. The name on the back of the indictment is that of D. C. O'Malley.

The citizens' committee is actively cooperating with the grand jury, although the latter is investigating the former. The committee this evening had an interview with several of the members of the Hennessy jury, and some able lawyers put them on the rack of a searching cross-examination. The committee has also been working in other directions and the grand jury will have some important testimony to work on before many days. District Attorney Luzenburger, owing to the national importance of the matter is assuming, has written a letter to Atty.-Gen. Rogers asking him to take charge of the investigation before the grand jury. Judge Rogers will probably respond to the invitation by offering his services. Gov. Nicholls will await the grand jury's report before sending his full explanation of Saturday's affair to Secretary Blaine. The governor has telegraphed to the secretary to that effect, and at present he could hardly say more than has been said to the newspapers.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Baron Fava has received the report of the Italian consul at New Orleans on the New Orleans lynching and laid it before Secretary Blaine. Consul Corti's review of the circumstances is looked upon as a forcible one. Its chief point is the directness with which the responsibility for the killing is laid at the door of Mayor Shakespeare and the municipality.

Aside from that it is important as an official statement which receives the endorsement of Minister Fava and may form the basis of the official action to be taken by the Italian government. Naturally enough Consul Corti makes a general defense of the Italian colony in New Orleans as distinguished from the mob. He asserts that the criminal classes were withheld. A synopsis follows:

He makes a strong showing for his countrymen, alleging that while the state had a good case against its prisoners for pecuniary interest or to justify assertions made by the mayor from the beginning that the prisoners were the guilty ones, or to get rid of dangerous characters. The threatening letters addressed to me and to others to prevent us from making any declaration in court proves plain the existence of this party. But all this does not justify the murder of defenseless prisoners. The violent articles in the evening papers of the 18th and the appeal made by some of the members of the committee of fifty to the people to assemble to take steps to remedy the verdict of the jury could not leave any doubt as to what was proposed. All that was necessary to avoid the massacre was to remove the prisoners. If Saturday morning, when the crowd of armed men were gathered around the Clay statue and before the incendiary speeches of Parkerson, Wickliffe and Walter Demergé, the mayor had ordered the transfer of the prisoners or had sent a sufficient force to disperse the crowd the people would have been spared such a spectacle.

When Saturday morning the consul called on the mayor he was not to be found. He saw, instead, at the city hall the sheriff and the attorney general. When applied to the governor for protection for his countrymen he received the reply that he could not do anything without a request from the mayor, who, it was said, was at the Pickwick club.

In transmitting this document to Secretary Blaine Minister Fava reiterates his confidence in the friendliness of the United States and its desire to see justice done, as was conveyed in Secretary Blaine's telegram to Gov. Nicholls. The next contribution to the subject which is awaited with most interest is the letter of Gov. Nicholls to the secretary, which has not yet been made public.

There are precedents enough at hand showing that the United States cannot be held responsible legally in the way of damages for the killing of the Sicilians. But that does not affect the main question, which is how far the moral responsibility of the federal government goes and to what extent the Italian government can look to it for reparation.

MUSICIANS MEET.

Sixth Annual Convention of the National League in Session at Milwaukee. MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 19.—The national league of musicians began its sixth annual convention Wednesday. There were about forty delegates present. After preliminary business incident to organization had been transacted a resolution was adopted authorizing a congratulatory message to Secretary Tracy expressing the thanks of the musicians of the United States for his order refusing permission to the government band to compete for the professional business of civilian musicians. It was adopted unanimously. Secretary Beck's report showed that seven charters had been issued for new societies. The national league now comprises thirty-two local societies, with a total membership of 6,741, one-third of whom reside in New York. Philadelphia has 660 members, Pittsburgh 330, Cincinnati 331 and Chicago 253.

President Wolsieffer's annual address, read just before adjournment, reviewed the work of the year and argued that the league had come to stay. He had corresponded with the local societies and found that upon the question whether the league affiliates with the federation of labor the prevailing sentiment was about evenly divided. He advised that no action be taken by them with which the league would surrender its present independent organization and powers.

At the evening session resolutions were adopted denouncing the treasury department decision permitting the admission and competition of foreign musicians under the alien contract law. It was expressly aimed at the admission of the Strauss orchestra and its musical instruments, and a committee was appointed to prepare a case and determine the validity of the decision of the late Secretary Windom.

No other Topeka banks are affected in the least, as the Knox bank did not owe a dollar to any bank or financial institution in this city.

THE LOSS APPALLING.

Story of The Utopia's Sinking Near Gibraltar.

THE DROWNED NUMBER NEARLY 600.

Brave Efforts Made to Rescue Unfortunates by British Sailors—Survivors Tell of Some Heartrending Scenes.

HOW THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

GIBRALTAR, March 19.—The official report of the number of persons on board the lost Anchor line steamer Utopia shows that when she left Naples the steamer had 880 souls on board, including passengers and crew. Of this number only 311 were saved. Thus 569 of her passengers and crew are either drowned or missing. The Freya picked up 43, the Rodney 39, the Anson 23, the Immortalite 2, the Curlew 21, the Camperdown 46, the Amber 6. Ten have died since their rescue, and others who are suffering are berthed in the naval and colonial hospitals and the sailors' home. A sailor from the Rodney leaped into the water in the height of the gale and rescued a drowning woman. The people were in the rigging of the Utopia till 11 Tuesday night. The bravery displayed by the seamen of the fleet was unexampled. The coast line is still strewn with corpses.

The authorities of Gibraltar are furnishing the rescued people with lodgings, food and clothing. It is expected that the Anchor line people will shortly take steps to forward the Utopia's survivors to their destinations in the United States by another steamer of their line. Some of the Italians, however, are so badly scared by their experiences that they announce their intention of never again braving the dangers of an ocean voyage.

Divers who have made an examination of the wreck of the Utopia report that there are hundreds of bodies in the steerage and between decks. During the course of the day the bodies of 23 men of the Utopia were recovered here, while at various other points along the coast the bodies of 6 men, 13 women, 7 boys and 1 girl were washed ashore. One of the women when her body was taken from the water was found to have her arms firmly locked around the corpse of her child. The death of the unfortunate people were taken to a cemetery in the Spanish lines, where an inquest was held.

Not until now has it been possible to give an account of the cause of the catastrophe. Early Tuesday evening the Utopia was seen steaming into the bay. The direction of the anchorage was when abreast the ironclad Anson the Utopia staggered as though unable to make headway against the terrible current. Suddenly the strong gale, combined with the current, swept the ill-fated vessel across the bows of the Anson, and in a moment its hull was pierced and cut by the ram of the ironclad. The Utopia after pulling clear of the ironclad drifted about before the wind and sea. The rapid inrush of water through the rent in its side caused it to settle down in five minutes from the time of the crash. The sea was so heavy that the boats of the rescuers could not with safety approach the wreck, so they were compelled to lie to leeward, where they picked up the people as they were swept from the deck.

The collision has probably never before been equaled in the history of marine disasters. On one side was the sinking passenger steamship crowded with about 700 immigrants, who filled the air with wild appeals for help and shrieks of terror as they saw death awaiting them in the dark, angry waters of the bay. On the other side was the ironclad Anson, manned by sturdy blue-jackets, who rushed furiously, driven along by the strong southwest gale, which had been one of the causes of the calamity. Right and left of the sinking vessel were the two monster battle-ships, the Rodney and the Anson, huge specimens of Britain's most powerful fighting ships, pouring the light of their powerful electric searchlights upon the disabled steamship, lighting up the agony of her passengers and showing clearly the terrible position in which they were placed. Here and there were the warships' small boats, manned by sturdy blue-jackets, who strained every nerve as they bent to their oars in that heavy sea, while striving gallantly to be first to reach the drowning passengers of the Utopia.

Petersen, a Swedish quartermaster, says that while on board the Utopia after the collision he was surrounded by a terrible mass of human beings, fighting their way desperately and savagely, regardless of sex or age, towards the boats. Men, women and children tumbled and climbed over each other in that horrible fight for a chance of escape from drowning. One poor woman, who was rescued by Anson's blue-jackets, went raving mad when she was convinced that her children were drowned. There were similarly distressing incidents by the score, the most awful of all occurring when the Utopia, with a final desperate lurch, sank with its human freight clinging about it and drew hundreds of living persons down with it. Many of those who had sprung into the sea as they saw that the steamship could not float many moments longer, were then also drawn down by the whirlpool caused by the Utopia's disappearance. Some came to the surface again for a few moments before sinking finally in their watery tombs. Others, more lucky, were able to cling to pieces of wreckage, floating spars, oars, gratings, hatchways, boats, life belts, etc., and thus kept themselves afloat, until rescued by the warships' boats. But, as usual in such cases, the weaker succumbed more readily. Shrieking, praying women sunk to rise no more, with their terrified offspring clasped to their breasts. Children clung to their parents so desperately as to in many cases become the death of both, where both might have escaped had better judgment been used. Husbands and wives sunk while grasping each other in frantic efforts to keep each other afloat, and many a good swimmer went down with some horrified, fear-maddened person clinging to him with the tenacity of the desperation of death.

MORE ABOUT THE GERRYMANDERS.

La Crosse was the city referred to by Assistant-General Doe to justify the slicing of Janesville into seven fantastically shaped wards. Judging from General Doe's statement the people of La Crosse were much delighted at the change, but the comments made by the press of that city give a different idea. The Republican and Leader remarks: "Janesville, like La Crosse, is kicking vigorously against a disreputable gerrymander to which the city was treated by the democrats. The one difference in the cases seems to be that the gerrymander of Janesville was mapped out in the private office of Governor Peck at Madison; while that at La Crosse is only attributed to the local democratic bosses. In neither case, however, were the people allowed to express themselves on the subject, and in both cases the people are determined to remove from power the persons who are responsible for the manner in which the two towns have been disfigured to gain a political advantage.—La Crosse Republican and Leader.

ANOTHER PARTY HOOODOO GONE.

Another target for democratic arrows must be found. For a year the bourbon organs have been uniting in their attacks on "the useless dairy and food commissioner," but they realize that cry no longer. The legislature has heard from the farmers of the state and dare not disregard the warning, even at the behest of Boss Wall. It is now practically certain that the evil milk dealers, the Armour oleomargarine manufacturers and the makers of impure baking powders will not have influence to knock out the commission that examines into the impure foods upon the market. But this is not the only point settled. The assembly of Wisconsin, democratic to the backbone, declare that the democratic organs have made an unequalled war upon the dairy and food commission, that the bosses were wrong in their attempts to wipe out the office, and that the action of the republican party in creating the office is commendable and well timed.

KEEP EUROPEAN MURDERERS AT HOME.

When the Italian government has ascertained the character of the men who were mobbed at New Orleans, it will probably forward a resolution of thanks to the gentlemen who did the lynching. The bandit Mafia does not rule Italy now. The New Orleans tragedy furnishes another argument, however, for a restricted immigration bill. That Italy can dump the dregs of her criminal population on our shore and then demand pay for every worthless scoundrel who butchers a man and pays the penalty, seems illogical to say the least. Had each Italian emigrant for the last ten years been compelled to show that he was not a professional criminal and was qualified to become a good citizen St. Paul's horror would never have taken place.

Chicago is likely to have four candidates in the field for mayor. The result is very certain to be favorable to the dangerous elements that the law-abiding people are fighting. The bodices and bummers never divide at the polls. They pool their issues and knock the pessimists, while their righteous opponents fritter away their strength. That has been the history of many a municipal contest, and it looks as if it would be repeated.

A project for adding another industry to Wisconsin's growing list is announced from Appleton. Farmers near that city have joined forces and have sent to Belfast, Ireland, for a supply of new sowing flax seed. They have ordered a quantity sufficient to sow ten acres of ground, and propose to try the experiment of flax raising here the coming season. A new machine for pulling the flax will probably be given a trial during the season.

There is some gossip in political circles regarding the proposed trip of ex-Senator Spooner to Europe this season. It is claimed that Mr. Spooner has been requested to undertake to form a basis for agreement of this country with others for a uniform bi-metallic standard and that he goes to Europe to enter upon the work.

Editor Wallace Brown has changed the Beloit Citizen to a straight democratic paper. The change will win respect no less from republicans than from democrats. At times past the Citizen has been all things to all men, being nominally "independent," but really spineless.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

The New Senator from Kansas.
W. A. Peffer, elected United States senator from Kansas, is 50 years of age, and was born in Pennsylvania. Some-what early in life he removed to Indiana, and lived successively in Illinois, Missouri and Tennessee before finally settling in Kansas. He has been a farmer, teacher, soldier and lawyer, and was editor of The Kansas Farmer when chosen senator. He was conservative in politics in Tennessee during reconstruction times, but was Garfield elector from Kansas in 1880. He has been identified with the Farmers' Alliance from the founding of the organization.

ILLINOIS.

Proceedings in Both Branches of the State Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 19.—Hermann Weinhardt has been appointed by Gov. Fifer and confirmed by the state senate as a member of the west side park board of Chicago.

A resolution declaring it the sense of the members of the house that a two-cent rate for railroad fares should be established by law was referred to the committee on railroads with instructions to report promptly. Mr. Jones introduced a resolution providing for the appointment by the governor of a commission of five persons to investigate the Australian system of transferring land titles. Mr. Craig introduced a resolution providing for the calling of a constitutional convention. Mr. Farns introduced a resolution amending the constitution so as to limit the regular sessions of the legislature to eighty days. Mr. Hamilton introduced a resolution requesting the stockyards of the state to report to the house committee on live stock and dairying the rates charged for yardage of grain, hay, etc., which was adopted. Mr. Merritt (dem.) introduced a joint resolution fixing April 15 as the date of the sine die adjournment of the legislature. A large number of bills were introduced, among them being the following: Fixing the pay of the members of the general assembly at $750 a session; to prohibit the combination of persons engaged in buying and selling live stock, the design of the bill being to wipe out the Chicago live stock exchange; to prevent the combination of railroads.

The senate passed the bill authorizing the city of Chicago to levy a 2-mill tax for library purposes, and bill for the payment of a penalty of 2 cents a head for the killing of English sparrows. A batch of appointments by the governor, including the railroad and warehouse commissioners, were confirmed. President Roy appointed Senators Viles, Berry, Rickert and Higbee as the senate delegates to the commercial congress to be held in the west.

CLAASSEN'S DOOM.

The Wrecker of the Sixth National Bank of New York Sent to Prison for Six Years.
NEW YORK, March 19.—Peter J. Claassen, convicted of embezzling the funds of the Sixth national bank, has been sentenced by Judge Benedict in the United States circuit court to six years in the Erie county penitentiary. (Claassen was formerly a saloon keeper in Albany, N. Y. Going to the metropolis he made money in Wall street and became one of a gang of speculators not notable for scrupulousness. In January, 1889, this combination managed to get control of the stock of the Sixth national bank of New York city and immediately made Claassen president. The very day after his election he made a loan of $180,000 out of the bank funds and the second day sold securities belonging to the bank amounting to $62,000. The cashier, becoming alarmed, gave notice to the clearing house and the national bank examiner, with the result of causing Claassen's arrest.)

AWFUL ACT OF A LUNATIC.

He Kills His Wife, His Mother-in-Law and His Sleeping Baby.

PARIS, March 19.—A man named Therbolet, crazed by the belief that his wife was unfaithful, cut her throat Tuesday night, strangled the child sleeping by her side, and stabbed his wife's mother to death. Then he ran into the street and surrendered to the police, avowing the murders and expressing joy that his victims were dead.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Hoffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds; and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble, try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at F. Sherer & Co's druggists.

PASSES FOR EVERYBODY.

A Committee of the Michigan House Favorably Reports a Free-Ride Measure.

LANSING, Mich., March 19.—A unique bill was favorably reported by the house railroad committee Wednesday. It requires all railroads to transport members of the legislature free of charge while they are engaged in legislative duties and further provides that each member shall be allowed 150 pounds of baggage. The bill does not accord with another now under consideration in the house, which makes it a penal offense for a legislator to accept or use a pass. The house passed a bill appropriating $93,800 for the university this year and $92,200 next year, and the senate, after a hard fight along party lines, adopted a concurrent resolution providing for final adjournment on April 30.

SUICIDE IN JAIL.

Ferdinand Troz, charged with Helous crimes, kills himself at Milwaukee.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 19.—An old man named Ferdinand Troz committed suicide by hanging in a cell of the county jail Tuesday night. He was held for tampering with little girls and with setting fire to the houses in which his victims lived for the purpose of burning them up and destroying the evidences of his crime. The police officials say they have evidence that Troz was the person who, on the night of April 23 last, set fire to the grocery store of Robert Virtel and caused the death of Mrs. Virtel and two daughters, one aged 8 and the other 6 years, Troz's object being the same as in the other cases.

WITNESSES:
LORNE ATWOOD for the Plaintiff.

THEY WANTED ST. JOHN.

Law and Order Democrats Favored Him

THEY WERE OUT-VOTED.

Dr. O. P. Robinson Placed at the Head of the Democratic City Ticket After a Strong Showing in Favor of Reform and Non-Partisanship.

Major, Dr. O. P. Robinson Placed at the Head of the Democratic City Ticket After a Strong Showing in Favor of Reform and Non-Partisanship.

It was nearly eight o'clock when William Smith pounded his fist against the table in the common council chamber last evening to order the democratic city convention to order. Before him stood seventy-five delegates who had been selected to represent the five wards in the making of a city ticket. It was not an enthusiastic body, and there was a noticeable absence of many of the old time leaders. Adjutant General Due was seen in the group, yet he felt content to occupy a back seat among the Third ward delegates. The saloon men were present in full force, both as delegates and lobbyists.

Very little was said in the chamber previous to the call to order. It was evident that the list had been carefully prepared. Here and there a delegate was working for reform in the city administration, and John Harvey, of the Third ward, had a resolution in hand endorsing the candidacy of Mayor St. John, but while a few stood by him in this move, the mass was determined to do otherwise.

After A. O. Wilson had been chosen to preside and John O. Zink as secretary, there was a moment of profound silence. Everybody expected something, and waited with bated breath for something to come. The spell was broken by William Smith.

Mr. Chairman, I understand that the first business to come before this convention is the nomination of a candidate for mayor. I have heard but two names mentioned in connection with this office—Mayor J. W. St. John and Dr. O. P. Robinson. I understand that Mayor St. John declines to accept any party nomination. This being the case, I move that Dr. O. P. Robinson be nominated for mayor by acclamation.

There was a little ripple of excitement, and a stir among the several delegations, but John Harvey, of the Third ward, was recognized by the chair.

"I hope the motion will not prevail," exclaimed Mr. Harvey, in an excited voice. Mayor St. John has led the democratic party to victory many times, and this at times when the great party was threatened with defeat. I know there are some who do not want him now because he voted for the Bennett law. Many good democrats voted for that law believing it to be right. Others do not want him because the republicans endorsed him. Republicans always think themselves better than any one else, and this is the best evidence in the world that Mayor St. John was the best man, because the republicans do endorse him. I offer the following resolution as an amendment to Mr. Smith's motion:

Resolved, That this convention does concur in the candidacy of our honored fellow citizen, J. W. St. John for mayor of the city of Janesville, pursuant to the call of the citizens thereof; and it is the sense of this convention that we give him our hearty support.

There was another little ripple of excitement, which was brought to a calm by Mr. Smith offering a substitute "that the convention proceed to a ballot for a candidate for mayor," which motion prevailed.

William Smith and John Harvey were appointed tellers.

The vote was taken and resulted as follows:

Dr. O. P. Robinson 39
J. W. St. John 14
George L. Carrington 1

Dr. O. P. Robinson having received a majority of the votes, was declared duly nominated. The doctor being present, was called out, and in a few words accepted the nomination.

The remainder of the work was quickly and quietly accomplished. There being but one candidate for city clerk—George H. Bates—the nomination was made by acclamation.

A ballot was taken for candidate for street commissioner, resulting in the nomination of John R. Ryan, he receiving forty-two votes; Charles Horn thirty-one, and H. Blunk one.

M. S. Prichard was nominated for justice of the peace, by acclamation.

Horace McElroy was nominated for school commissioner-at-large by acclamation.

A ballot was taken for sealer, resulting in the nomination of Ferdinand Quinn, he receiving fifty-two votes, to twenty-two cast for W. V. Morrison.

A city committee was appointed as follows: Richard Valentine, J. F. Baker, George H. Bates, John Harvey, Charles Horn, James Bennett.

BELOIT GLEE CLUB COMING.

A Concert Arranged for April 10—Warm Praise from Beloit.

The Beloit College Glee and Banjo clubs, who are to give a concert here on April 10, gave a concert at Beloit on Tuesday evening, and the Free Press speaks of it as follows: "From the beginning to end, the concert took on the nature of an ovation. Each number was applauded to the echo and re-echo, and still the audience, like Oliver Twist, cried for more. The ever-popular Banjo club added fresh laurels to its complete and repeated great credit on the veteran leader. The mandolin duet was a new and pleasing feature."

The Glee club is composed of sixteen men, and the Banjo club has five banjos, four guitars and two mandolins. Bear in mind that on Friday, April 10, the above clubs will appear in the Congregational church in this city.

"Who, did you say, is to be the next president?" "Oh! I don't know and don't care. I'm not looking for a president—I'm looking for a bottle of Sanguinaria Oil. It kills pain every time." 25 cents.

One of our most estimable citizens may be thankful for the introduction of Dr. Balle's Compound Syrup, for it has saved his life. For incipient consumption it is a certain remedy. Price 25 cents.

This is the second one purchased by Mr. Kent and the first one saved him quite a loss. Heimstreet is the agent here for the fire extinguishers.

CHAT ABOUT POLITICS

Another Caucus Called in the Third Ward.

THE NEW FIRST DISTRICT.

J. H. Dearborn Agrees to Run for Alderman—Evansville to Vote on the "Liquor Question, License Likely to Carry The Day."

The chairman and secretaries of the several republican ward caucuses have been cautioned not to forget to make a certified list of the ward nominations to the county clerk as provided by law. In wards where vacancies have occurred and the ward committees were not authorized to fill the same, new caucuses must be called. This should be attended to at once, and the returns made at least fifteen days previous to election.

A republican caucus will be held in the Third ward to-morrow evening to select a candidate for school commissioner in place of Ogden H. Fethers. The caucus will be held in the municipal court room and will be called to order at 7:30 o'clock.

The better class of citizens—republicans and democrats—are now convinced that the citizens' movement in calling out Mayor St. John for re-election, is one of the best moves ever made in behalf of good government in this city. Dr. St. John is an outspoken democrat, yet he stands in this campaign as a candidate for mayor knowing no party—he is for the people who are in favor of law and order and good government, and the people are likely to stand by him regardless of the party whip.

The call to submit the license question to a vote at the coming election of Janesville has been made. Many think that license will win. This village never granted license.

The Manitowish County Chronicle early "begins swarting" over the appointment which it fears will mar the beautiful symmetry of the Fifth congressional "lake shore district." It is expected that at least a thousand of the safe democratic majority of that district will be pried over onto the First district.

J. B. Dearborn, the caucus nominee of the Third ward democrats for alderman, has reconsidered his determination to decline, and to-day announced to the ward committee that he would let his name stand.

LOCAL PLAY HOUSE NOTES.

The advance sale of seats for Donnelly and Girard in "Natural Gas," opens at the box office tomorrow morning. From present indications the house will be crowded, and those desiring good seats will do well to push their doubloons through Manager Myers' ticket tomorrow forenoon.

Janesville people will not be privileged to see "The Crystal Shipper" at the Myers this season. Manager Henderson writes that all dates are filled up to the summer engagement at the Chicago Opera House, but that he will save a date for next season.

Instead of one night, "The Limited Mail" will make a two-night stand in this city April 9 and 10. The piece is said to be one of the best of the sensational melodramas now on the road.

E. H. Sothern will play in Janesville after the summer intermission. An effort was made to secure a date for this week, but the company's time was filled in the east.

Donnelly and Girard came to Janesville on their way from San Francisco to Chicago. Their trip through the west was very successful.

"The Magazine" will be given at Leppin's hall to-morrow evening instead of at Court Street church.

HORSE SOLD FOR $2,000

Galbraith Brothers Dispose of Seventeen Valuable Stallions

The auction sale of stallions by the Galbraith Brothers drew out a large number of buyers from many states. Seventeen stallions were sold, many of them yearlings and two-year-olds. One Shire stallion brought $2,125, and one Clyde brought $2,000, being the highest prices ever reached at an auction sale of stallions in this country. Of the seventeen horses sold under the hammer, the average price was $1,100—a remarkable average, when it is stated that a majority of the animals were very young—yearlings and two-year-olds.

Quite a number of private sales were concluded after the auction, some of the horses thus bringing good prices. Altogether the sale reached the full anticipation of the proprietors, and was the most successful of any similar offering ever held in the state. The Galbraiths had their hands full this morning at their main office in this city, settling with buyers and getting the horses ready for delivery and shipment.

RIB BROKEN BY A HORSE.

William Buchanan Badly Hurt by a Big Clydesdale.

William Buchanan, an employee of Reid Brothers, was quite badly injured yesterday afternoon by being jammed against the side of a stall by one of the big Clydesdales here. Buchanan went into the stall to feed the big brute. The horse became frightened at something and pushed sideways, pressing Buchanan against the stall with considerable force. His injuries consist of a broken rib. Dr. Hugh Menzies attended the injured man.

Unwelcome Magnetism.

In a recent lecture the well known electrician, Professor Nichols, was demonstrating the fact that an iron rod becomes a magnet by forcibly striking one end while holding the rod in a north and south direction. By way of illustrating his remarks he told how while yachting several summers ago he was sailing from the Isle of Shoals toward the coast of Maine when he noticed that a large mountain in Maine, a landmark, had unaccountably moved several points away from its natural position.

Under the supposition that the compass was being affected in some way everything around it was moved away; but to no purpose. The mountain refused to move, until finally an umbrella which was lying near by was removed, when the mountain quickly moved back to where it belonged. The umbrella as the owner walked along had evidently been tapped against the ground, which eventually caused the steel spikes holding the cover to become quite strongly magnetized. When placed near the compass a deflection of the compass of several points had taken place.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

ROCKWOOD AND PEPPER

The Kansas Senator's Janesville Comrades

MARCHED SIDE 'BY SIDE'

Major Rockwood Writes of His Meeting With the Farmer State's man and Drops a Word Incidentally as to Men Who Are Getting Rich.

A letter from Major S. S. Rockwood to "Tom" Bennett, of Chicago, printed in today's Chicago News, unfolded an interesting little bit of history. Major Rockwood said:

"Do you know that it is our old campaign mate and chum, Sergeant Pepper from Kansas, who succeeds Ingalls as senator? We had quite a reunion the other day. When you retire to your farm please invite me there to spend a day over pipes, tobacco, etc. I suppose you are growing 'old and rich' as well as Abe Frodo. I am simply growing old. It's so much easier to grow old than grow rich. If I was only half rich I would not fool away my time in trying to get wholly rich, but would devote it assiduously to keep from growing old. To be young and comfortably well off is the fortune of fortune the fates vouchsafe to us mortals. Come and see me."

Major Rockwood, was the commissary and quartermaster at Fort Donelson, Tennessee in 1862. Sergeant Pepper was assigned to duty as his chief clerk, while "Tom" Bennett, then a boy of 19, was storekeeper. The reunion referred to in Mr. Rockwood's letter carried Mr. Bennett back to the old winter of 1862-3, when the trio used to keep the water hot, to entertain the officer of the day after the grand rounds at midnight. "Abe" Poole, of whom the major speaks, is an old Rock county boy—brother of Mrs. Elmy Norcross, of this city.

One Man's Way.

If one were to stand in any fair sized audience in this country and exclaim, "No stranger should leave the city with a box of candy"—and ask his hearers to finish the sentence, it is a hundred to one that the audience would shout, "—the candy" giving the name of a well known Chicago confectioner. This gentleman started in business a few years ago with two leading ideas distinctly in mind: To make strictly first class goods, to tell the public that he had them and to keep telling the public that he had them. He has not used large advertisements—in his line and for his purpose that would not have been the best way; but he has persistently and continuously hammered out the statement that no stranger should leave the city without a box of his candy, until his name and personality are associated with the candy business in this city as no others are.

The illustration suggests three points: Advertising matter should be plain in composition, it should suggest the individuality of the advertiser, and it should be continued indefinitely in use. Of course the plan referred to in the foregoing is better adapted to paid matter in the form of "readers" than to displayed advertising.

In mercantile advertising where display is used it is well to make one advertisement have relation to another which is to follow. Having secured the attention of a reader for his advertisement the advertiser can catch him for the next by a line inviting particular notice to the proclamation which will appear in the same paper the next day or the next week, as the case may be.

The study of methods is one which every advertiser can make very profitable. Newspaper advertising is a necessity for the good business man, and pays him well; but he can multiply its returns by using his space with energy and judgment.
